

Conflict of interest declaration

This form helps National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) providers be transparent and declare a conflict of interest.

When completing this form, providers should give participants or their authorised representatives the opportunity to review the information provided, as well as the Conflict of Interest resources, and raise any concerns they may have.

NDIS providers should keep this form for their personal records and provide a signed copy to the participant or their authorised representative.

This declaration form is an agreement between a provider and a participant, and does not need to be submitted to the NDIA.

Section A: Definition

A conflict of interest occurs when a person or organisation has an opportunity to put what will benefit them (their own interests) ahead of the interests of the person they are supporting.

These conflicts may be:

- actual – it happened or is happening
- potential – it might happen
- perceived – it seems like it has happened or might happen.

‘Own interests’ can include the interests of a person’s family, friends, employer or other organisations they are involved with.

A conflict of interest could be of a financial, business or personal nature, including any financial and/or corporate interest or conflicted relationship the NDIS provider may have with other entities, including businesses and organisations. A conflict of interest could also be of a personal nature, including but not limited to a cultural, religious, or social relationship.

Section C: Identification of the conflict of interest

Date conflict of interest identified
--------------------------------------	--

1. The conflict of interest has been identified as:

Please tick all that apply.

- ☐ an actual conflict of interest – it happened or is happening
- ☐ a potential conflict of interest – it might happen
- ☒ a perceived conflict of interest – it seems like it has happened or might happen.

2. Indicate who the conflicted relationship relates to:

Please tick all that apply.

- ☐ an employee
- ☒ a provider or organisation
- ☐ a business owner.

3. What is the nature of the conflict of interest?

Please tick all that apply.

- ☐ Financial. For example, receiving a secondary gain, financial incentive or gift.
- ☒ Business. For example, there are multiple supports and services provided from the same or connected business or organisation.
- ☐ Personal. For example, a friend or family member benefits from the arrangement.

4. Describe the conflict of interest including who is involved and the circumstances.

Infinity Supports WA is providing both Support Coordination and Direct Service Delivery to the participant. As these supports are delivered by the same organisation, a potential or perceived conflict of interest may arise regarding participant choice, impartiality, or independence.

5. Discuss and describe the participant's concerns using their own words.

The participant/family has chosen to receive both services from Infinity Supports WA due to previous experiences with other providers not meeting the participant's needs, lack of continuity, or poor service quality. They express confidence in Infinity Supports WA and have voluntarily requested the dual-service arrangement.

6. Can the conflict be avoided?

Choose the best answer.

- ☐ Yes, (outline strategies to avoid in Section D: Provider Management Plan).
- ☒ Yes, the participant has made an informed choice to receive supports from a specified provider after fully thinking about options available.
- ☐ No, limited-service options are available in regional, rural and remote areas.
- ☐ No, services require specific cultural and religious choices and practices.
- ☐ No, highly specialised services have few accredited providers that operate nationally.

Section D: Provider management plan

7. Describe the risk or impacts associated with the conflict.

- Perceived reduced participant choice and control
- Perceived pressure to use other services from the same organization
- Perceived lack of impartial referrals or recommendations

8. List the alternative options that were explored and offered to the participant.

- The participant was previously with another organisation for service delivery whilst Infinity Supports provided Support Coordination. The family requested a change in provider due to lack of continuity and poor quality of care.
- Support Coordinator offered alternative providers in the local area as mentioned in the service agreement. The family requested services were provided by Infinity Supports due to reputation of quality services.
- The family were offered to be transferred to another Support Coordinator, but this was declined also.

9. Describe the management strategy and actions to be taken by the NDIS provider.

- ☒ Monitor. Implement close supervision.
- ☐ Monitor. No further action required.
- ☐ Implement. An independent third-party contact or review.
- ☐ Restrict. Limit conflicted person's involvement in delivering supports and services.
- ☐ Remove. Conflicted person to be removed from delivering supports and services to participant named in section A.

Infinity Supports WA has a clear, structured plan to ensure transparency, independence, and safety when Support Coordination and Service Delivery are provided to the same participant.

- Different staff deliver Support Coordination and Direct Supports, maintaining strict role boundaries and avoiding overlap.
- Support Coordinators do not recommend Infinity Supports WA services unless the participant specifically requests them.
- Staff maintain separate participant files, supervision structures, and reporting lines to protect impartiality.
- Participants have direct access to directors (Sharon or Anand) for independent oversight and to raise concerns, along with full contact details for the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission.
- Participants are provided with written information about alternative providers and may change providers at any time. Full support is provided to transition to another provider upon request or during plan renewal.
- An independent check-in or review may be arranged to ensure the participant's choices remain free and informed.
- The conflict is recorded in the Conflict-of-Interest Register, reviewed annually or sooner if circumstances change.
- All personal information is handled strictly in accordance with Infinity Supports WA's Privacy and Confidentiality Policy.

10. The conflict has been discussed with:
